GOULD DEFEATS SO. PARIS 26-7

The first period of the Gould-Paris game proved a rout for the visitors as the "Blue and Gold" struck with such sudden power and brilliant running. On the first play of the game Tom Jacobs cut back on an end run and raced 65 yards to score. Just minutes later he again crossed the goal line on a 22 yard scamper. Both "points after" failed. Before the first period ended Gould again scored; this time from the one yard line. Emery then booted the extra point to give Gould a 19-0 lead at the end of the first period.

With Stearns doing yeoman like work Paris came to life with some long runs and passes to score a touch down and successful point after. Gould however came right back with Merrill scoring on a 28 yard dash. Emery again place kicked successfully. Score at the end of the half remained 26-7 for Gould.

Where the first half proved a great offensive battle, the last half turned into a bitter defensive game. South Paris put on a determined and savage drive to even things up but although they gained more ground and made more first downs in the last half they could not score. The Gould eleven looked great on offense in the first half but they couldn't do much after the half way mark. With neither team able to again score Gould annexed a neat 26-7 victory for its third straight of the year.

REV. JOHN FOSTER TO BE NEW CONG. PASTOR

Rev. John J. Foster of Brooklyn, N. Y., has accepted the call to become pastor of the West Parish Congregational Church, succeeding Rev. Herbert T. Wallace, who retired last month and is now living at Scituate, Mass.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Foster are natives of West Virginia, where both attended West Virginia Wesleyan College. Following Mr. Foster's graduation from West Virginia Wesleyan, he attended Yale Divinity School, from which he was graduated in 1941. While attending Yale he was Assistant Pastor at the South Federated Church of Waterbury, Conn.

The last two years he has been Assistant at the Cadman Memorial Church in Brooklyn, in charge of young people's work.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Foster are young people who are very much interested in the activities of boys and girls, and their influence will be of great benefit to Bethel and surrounding communities.

Definite date for their arrival in Bethel has not yet been agreed upon, but it is expected that they will arrive the latter part of November.

FARMERS SHOULD PLOW CORN STUBBLE UNDER NOW TO PREVENT CORN BORER

Sabateurs may be active in Maine cornfields next year unless prompt measures are taken to control them now, warns Dr. J. H. Hawkins of the Maine Agricultural Experiment Station. European corn borers, he says, have increased this year to such an extent that they threaten a serious outbreak another year.

Stalks infected by the corn borer may produce "nubbins" too small for use, or may not mature ears at all. The borers may damage any part of the plant from roots to tassel.

Best control, says Hawkins, is to cut the corn fodder into the silo and then plow the stubble under in the fall, taking care that all stalks are completely covered with earth. The sooner the plowing is done the better the results will be.

EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union news analysts, and not necessarily of this newspaper.

ITALY:

Fight for Rome

Beating forward to Rome, Allied armies ran into what appeared to be the Germans' first stiff defense line across southern Italy.

In taking up their new positions, the Germans entrenched themselves on the north bank of the Volturno river on the western coast, and along the open, narrow plain on the eastern coast. Between the two coasts, their troops dug into the rugged mountains.

In all, the line ran 125 miles across Italy. Allied Generals Montgomery and Clark brought up reinforcements for the first thrust at the enemy's new positions, while U. S. and British airmen pounded German supply routes leading to the front.

Observers kept one eye cocked on the Balkans, where German and British units were fighting for small islands in the Aegean sea, from which an invasion fleet moving into Greece or Jugoslavia could be bombed.

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC:

Jap Posts Crumble

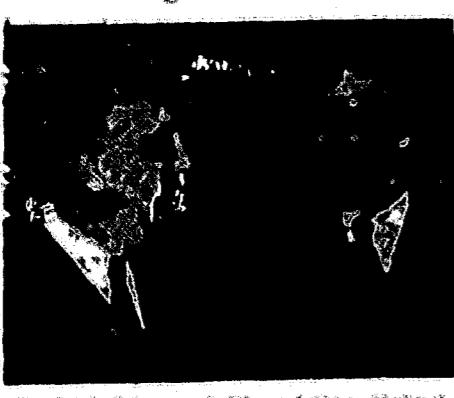

The Japanese position in the Solomons and New Guinea is slowly crumbling. With the Allies holding the advantage in sea and air strength, the Japs have found it increasingly difficult to supply their distant outposts, and latest in the group to be abandoned was Kolombangara in the Solomons.

Unable to use big cargo or naval vessels because they would become easy prey for the superior Allied sea and air forces, the Japs are continuing to rely on barges for supplying their advanced bases, and, as in the case of Kolombangara, evacuating men. Operated at night, these barges are hidden along the seashores by day.

In New Guinea, the Allies beat back light patrols guarding the approaches to Madang. Jap air and shipping base on the northeast coast. The Allies were skirting the enemy's main defenses in a wide, circling movement, to fall on the base from the rear in much the same pattern as their conquests of Lae and Finchafen.

TAXES:

More Sought

Declaring that the American people are able to pay for at least 50 per cent of war expenses through taxes, Stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson urged a reluctant congress to approve the government's program for 10½ billion dollars of new levies.

The program calls for higher income and corporation taxes, and increased rates on tobacco, liquor, amusements and luxuries of all kinds. The program also was to lay new levies on candy, chewing gum, soft drinks, greeting cards and other items.

Present taxes are paying for about 28 per cent of war expenses, and the additional 10½ billion dollars would bring the figure up to almost 50 per cent. In his statement to congress, Vinson declared that next year the people will have over 46 billion dollars in excess purchasing power over goods available. Higher taxes also will serve to prevent inflation then, he said.

U. S. troops stalk carefully through battered Italian town on march to Rome. Doughboys are on lookout for snipers.

The government also proposed increased social security taxes for higher unemployment payments and temporary disability and hospital benefits.

FARM:

Higher Meat Goals

Because stocks have outgrown feed supplies, the War Food administration will call upon farmers to market three million head of cattle in 1944 which they might otherwise keep for milking, breeding or fatten.

In all, the WFA will work for an increase of two billion pounds of meat over this year, to bring total production to 30½ billion pounds. But because military, lend-lease and other government agencies will ask for 25 per cent more meat next year, civilian rations are not expected to be raised.

Because of the feed situation, WFA will ask for a 17 per cent cut in hog production, but inasmuch as many pigs from the 1943 crop will be led to market, 1944 slaughter is expected to top this year's.

Restrict Feed Sales

In a further effort to bring meat production in line with feed supplies, the Commodity Credit corporation prohibited sale of its wheat stocks for feed for fattening hogs over 200 pounds or building cattle beyond fair to good finish.

CCC also stipulated that feed mixers purchasing CCC wheat must sell their product only for dairy cows and hens. However, no buyer will be required to certify use of the grain according to government regulation.

With weekly wheat sales averaging 10 million bushels, CCC stocks stood at 123,013,000 bushels. As of September 25, sales approximated 118,298,000 bushels. Of the 23,721,000 bushels of wheat purchased from Canada, CCC reported virtually all delivered.

PHILIPPINES:

Immediate Independence

To combat Japanese propaganda designed to obtain the support of the Filipinos in the war against the U. S., congress has received a bill to grant the Philippine Islands their independence as soon as possible rather than in 1946.

Following introduction of the bill, President Roosevelt recommended that action be taken on the proposal, with provisions for economic freedom, postwar rehabilitation with U. S. help, and military security through U. S.-Filipino cooperation.

In attempting to consolidate their hold over the Philippines, the Japs have been dining the natives that the U. S. is insincere in its promise of granting them independence.

PEACE AIM:

Three Faiths Agree

Identical peace aims have been enunciated by representatives of the three great faiths of the United States in a seven-point declaration. After months of study, the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, speaking for the Protestants, Catholics and Jews, issued a seven-point postwar program.

1. A just peace based upon recognition that "not only individuals, but nations, states and international society are subject to the sovereignty of God and the moral law;" 2. States must repudiate racial, religious or other discrimination; 3. Safeguards for all peoples, large and small; 4. Equal educational opportunities and political equality for minorities.

5. Guarantee of faithful fulfillment of international obligations; to provide collective security by limitation of armaments; to compel arbitration of disputes. 6. International economic collaboration "to assist all states to provide an adequate standard of living for their citizens." 7. Security of the family and participation of labor in decisions affecting its welfare.

RUSSIA:

Crack Dnieper

Storming the Dnieper river at three points, Red troops cracked the Nazis' last strong natural defense line in Russia, and the enemy struggled valiantly to check the new drive before it could gain momentum.

Principal breach in the Dnieper front was 50 miles north of Klev, where the Reds poured reinforcements and supplies onto the west bank after gaining an initial foothold. The Nazis' problem was to keep the Russians from building up a force strong enough to drive forward and then swing back and take Klev from the rear.

In the north, the Reds recaptured the important rail junction of Nevel.

Sees City's End

Because the automobile, airplane and helicopter will reduce travel time, more and more people will abandon congested cities and move to outlying districts, says Frank Lloyd Wright, one of the foremost leaders in the development of modern architecture.

The home of the future will contain much glass to permit sunshine and light, Wright says, and each one will have a little farm. Smoke will be eliminated through the development of modern heating systems, Wright predicts, and the entire country will be electrified.

Frank Lloyd Wright

EUROPE:

Sufficient Food

Germany's conquest of Europe early in World War II has assured her of sufficient food to carry on the conflict. At present, German rations are three times higher than they were at the close of the last war.

Besides being able to draw on all of Europe for food, Germany's own 1943 production was at top levels. Bread and cereal crops were said to be one-third higher this year than last.

The oilseed harvest was the best in a generation, and butter production totaled 708,000 tons. Millions of foreign workers intensified cultivation of sugar beets and potatoes.

Cattle stock reputedly was higher than 1939, and because of increased feed, plans were laid for raising more hogs.

The U. S. department of agriculture estimated Europe's 1943 wheat crop at 1½ billion bushels, largest since 1939.

MOSCOW:

New Mission

Whatever has been passing in the brain of Joseph Stalin might become known to U. S. and British statesmen when they gather in Moscow for conferences with the Russians on present and postwar questions.

Mysterious Russia's mysterious man has already laid claim to parts of Finland, all of Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania, eastern Poland and sections of Rumania. Courted by Germany for an armistice, he has told the Germans they can have peace with him provided they chuck the Nazis.

To hold Russia in the war against Germany, and yet work out means of satisfying her territorial demands without impairing U. S. and British interests, is the problem confronting Allied statesmen. Leading the American delegation at the conference will be Secretary of State Cordell Hull and the new U. S. ambassador to Russia, Bunker W. Averell Harriman.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

GENERAL: So suddenly did the British Eighth army land in Italy near Termoli that a detachment was able to capture the German commander of the area in bed, according to a radio from Algiers.

ART: Rome's great art treasures are being taken from palaces and museums by the Nazis and are being shipped to Germany, as Allied troops approach the city, London papers report.

PRISONERS: Thirty thousand Allied prisoners are working in forced labor gangs building a railroad between Thailand and Burma under Japanese army supervision, according to reports. They are suffering from dysentery, cholera and malaria, and the death rate is said to be high.

WORKERS: The nation's labor force dropped 1,000,000 when schools reopened in September, the census bureau reports, adding that unemployment has fallen to the lowest level on record. Figures are based on the week September 5 to 11.

Only 800,000 persons were listed by the bureau as jobless, which is a decline of 200,000 from the corresponding week in August, and 900,000 down from the same week of September of last year. Total employment was set at 52,500,000 for September, a net increase of 100,000 over 1942 corresponding figures.

KELLY-NASH:

Team Broken

Death came to Patrick ("Pat") Nash in his 81st year, breaking up the political combination of Kelly-Nash, for 10 years the principal power of Illinois' Democratic party.

Chiefly through their close organization of 10 of Chicago's West Side wards, Kelly and Nash could carry Cook county by 300,000 votes at every election. Although the late Gov. Henry Horner broke their hold on the state in 1936, he made peace with them in 1939, and since then their power lay unquestioned.

Nash mixed politics with business. As he rose up the political ladder through 50 years, he kept his sewerage business, at one time drawing 14 million dollars in contracts from the sanitary district.

Boss of his party, it was Nash who chose former Sanitary District Engineer E. J. Kelly to succeed Mayor Anton Cermak after the latter's death in 1933, thus creating the famous Kelly-Nash combination.

DRAFT:

New Regulations

Although the senate killed Sen. Burton Wheeler's bill to postpone the induction of fathers until January 1, it moved toward providing stricter utilization of other manpower.

Through adoption of a substitute bill, the senate voted: 1. Occupational deferments would be limited to pre-war fathers, unless employers could prove indispensability of single or childless married men; 2. All deferments would be subject to review by the appeal board within the district where the employer was located; 3. A board would be appointed to study lowering present physical standards to make use of 4F's.

In the senate bill which went to the house for consideration, allowances to service men's wives were increased to $50 and to $30 for the first child, and $20 for each additional child.

RELIGION:

Delegates to the 54th triennial convention of the Protestant Episcopal church, meeting in Cleveland recently, authorized procedure moving towards eventual "organic unity" with the Presbyterians.

MENINGITIS: The new wonder drug penicillin may be the answer to meningitis. Two experimenters working on laboratory animals have reported that the death rate has been reduced from 93 per cent to 54 per cent by injecting small doses of the drug into the spinal canal.

OBJECTORS: Ninety-two British women who have refused to report for war jobs when ordered to, under the women's draft regulations, have been sentenced to prison, a story from London says.

MEDICAL: Despite relentless efforts of the army medical corps, malaria has increased among American troops abroad, reports Maj. Gen. Norman Kirk, surgeon general. On the other hand, venereal infections are being reduced, the major revealed.

The head of the medical corps also stated that wounded soldiers have a much better chance of survival in this war than in previous ones. Only 2½ per cent of the wounded die after treatment now, he said, which is the lowest rate in the history of warfare.

THE STORY SO FAR: Anne Heywood, beautiful daughter of a wealthy New York newspaper publisher, goes on an assignment to Puerto Rico where Pete Wilcox, a reporter on her father's paper, is stationed as a U. S. Army intelligence officer. On the boat she meets a young Puerto Rican, Miguel Valera, and an engineer named Richard Taussig, of whom she is immediately suspicious. She does not know that he is, in fact, a German agent ordered to destroy Puerto Rico's water supply. When Anne's bags are searched she suspects Taussig. She goes to his hotel room to investigate and is surprised by a man she recognizes as Miguel Valera. Valera is talking to Pete Wilcox.

CHAPTER V

Pete blew a large white ring of cigarette smoke out in front of him and watched it dissolve in the cool silver air. Miguel Valera had been educated in the States—he ought to have learned that you don't discuss a girl with a man you scarcely know. He took a deep breath and said nothing.

"I'm sorry if I've offended you," Miguel Valera said quietly. He put down his glass. "I thought you were a close friend of hers."

"I am."

"In that case, if you will allow me to offer you some advice.—Send her back to the States on Wednesday's Clipper."

He got up.

"Good night, Captain Wilcox." He was halfway across the patio to the arcade before Pete was sure he had really heard the words. He looked silently after him, and glanced up at Anne's dark window.

It was almost eleven when Anne got out of the elevator and went over to the desk. There was a note in her mail box from Pete, and a couple of air-mail letters from home. Nothing from Miguel. Just why she'd thought there would be she didn't know.—Or why she was disappointed, just vaguely, because there wasn't. Maybe he knew she'd seen him.

She went out onto the porch and sat down to read her mail. She must be careful of her skin, her mother said, and not go without a hat. Her father hoped she was having fun and wouldn't fall in love with any damned native. She smiled, put the letters in her bag, and opened Pete's note.

"Anne—You're lunching with me. Same time, same place. Pete."

She got up. As she started to go back into the lobby a big shiny black limousine with a uniformed chauffeur pulled up under the portico. Anne's heart jumped. Miguel Valera was getting out. With him was his father, Don Alvaro. For an instant her impulse was to run. But she couldn't . . . Miguel had seen her. It was an important moment—something profoundly deep inside her told her it was one of the most important moments of her life. Then he was coming toward her. And she mustn't let him know she knew.

"Good morning! This is awfully nice!"

With the speed of light something so concealed that it was almost imperceptible relaxed behind Miguel Valera's gray-green eyes. He smiled warmly, taking her friendly outstretched hand. Anne's face brightened. She'd done it. He didn't know . . . and the rest was easy.

"You remember my father?"

"Of course." She smiled at Don Alvaro, standing aloof and dignified in the archway waiting for his son. He had on the same white drill semi-military uniform—or another like it, because he was spotlessly starched and ironed and the same gray felt hat in his hand.

"Good morning," she said. She didn't know whether it should be Mr. or Senor or Don, so she didn't say his name at all.

"Good morning, Senorita."

Don Alvaro bowed with formal courtesy. His eyes meeting hers with X-ray clarity were old and wise and calm. Yet somewhere in them was a veiled shadow of the same subtle resentment she'd felt so sharply and undisguisedly in Graciela's.

She held out her hand simply. As simply, Don Alvaro took it. In the brief instant her eyes were raised to his, calm and trusting as a child's, the heavy load he had carried since his son's return had vanished. He smiled.

"Will you have coffee with us, Senorita?"

Miguel, reaching in his pocket for his lighter, stopped his hand abruptly. He had known his father would like her . . . he couldn't help it when he once knew her; but he had expected a long uphill climb before more than a truce prevailed. He glanced at his father out of the corner of his eye, not entirely convinced.

"I'd love to," Anne was saying.

Wilcox didn't know, he thought, how much it had taken for him to suggest sending her back to the States. He watched her slim flame-tipped body moving easily beside his father's erect firm figure. Independence was a spiritual and physical as well as a social and economic quality. You could spot an American girl anywhere in the world. The way she moved was even more revealing than the way she dressed.

"Just so long as it doesn't get her into trouble," he thought. "She's not half as sophisticated as she looks."

He glanced up at Taussig's window. "—I've got to get her away from here."

He sat down between Anne and his father, still uneasy as he heard them speaking. Like all Latins, his father loved a fine horse and a beautiful girl—but so far as he was able to remember he had never heard him discussing social philosophy with either.

"You'll find poverty, economic and spiritual, on the Island, Senorita," Don Alvaro was saying. "But I hope you will find richness too. It is here, for the understanding heart to search out."

Pete Wilcox sat at his desk at General Headquarters, going through the morning's reports from the Department's under-cover agents in Puerto Rico. It was a curious assortment, but no more curious than the assortment of people who sent it in. Army Intelligence spreads like a sensitive plant over the entire Caribbean area.

He looked at his watch. It would be hours before he saw Anne—if she showed at all. He wished to God she'd stayed at home. There was only one ray of comfort in the immediate present. Tied to his desk with the ball and chain of Army regulations like the prisoners of Old Morro, he got some relief from the fact that Miguel Valera wanted her to go home. It meant at any rate that he wasn't going all out to glamorize her into staying.

And there was one other dewdrop in the desert. That had been dropped in passing by the General's aide, Old Iron Lung (namely Colonel Mortimer St. Clair De Voe, Engineer in Charge of Maintenance and Construction of the Caribbean Area) had said to tell the C.O., with his compliments, that he didn't give a blank blank blank if the Eternal Himself sent the Prophet Hezekiah down to Puerto Rico. Nobody was seeing the details of the pumps at Boringuen, or any place else he was in charge of. He would be glad to write the Senate of the United States, individually and collectively, and tell them so by blank.

"What did the General say?" some one had asked.

"The General?" said the aide. "Oh, the General. The General grinned, and sent Mr. Taussig plus a copy of the Séante resolution they haven't passed yet for Old Iron Lung's pet project on Tortilla Cay, to the old boy, both with his compliments. So Mr. Taussig is on the Engineer's hands, not ours. Which is Okay with us, I'm telling you.

All we've got to do is have him to dinner. And say, Pete, how about Miss Heywood? The Old Man knows her father. She's at the Granada, isn't she?"

Pete looked down at the papers in front of him. He'd been trying to get up nerve to ask for a week's leave. It wasn't nerve so much, actually, as proper self-control when Colonel Fletcher turned him down.

THE LOW DOWN FROM HICKORY GROVE

I been on a little trip on the railroad—had to go. Waited until after labor day, but it was still crowded. Lots and lots of women. Couldn't quite understand it. If you want to travel around because money is jinglin' in your jeans—and no other good reason—you are not shootin' square with the rail roads, or the Navy, and Army, and Marines. They gotta go—but it is not a pleasure trip.

On the dining car I was sure surprised. They had not boosted prices. There was less variety, maybe, but plenty. Even strawberries. And coffee—pardon me, my Susie don't make it much better. Don't go around pounein' on the rail roads and saying they need to be taken over and run by the government. She looks to me like they are doing a skookum job and should have 3 cheers—so I give 'em same.

And before signing off, I will tell you of the waiter on the dinin' car. He musta been a gold-star boy—he was an old timer, I said to him, "You make your job look easy." Think first and save steps—he says, and you will live longer—also he says, you won't wear out your shoes. A colored Confucius.

You're with the low down,

13 MILLION CORDS OF PULPWOODNeeded for Essential Production This Year!

FARMERS OF MAINE: Your Wood Lots can help make up the Great Shortage now facing us. WILL YOU HELP?

Pulpwood is a forgotten crop on many farms. Right now your country needs that crop for Vital War Production. A cord of pulpwood from your farm will make enough powder to fire 2 rounds from a 16-inch naval gun. Pulpwood is needed to make fibre-board containers for Medical Dressings, Food, Ammunition, and Supplies of all kinds. Pulpwood also makes Rayon for Parachutes to land Supplies and Equipment quickly when needed.

Every stick will help. Harvest your Woodland Crop NOW!

When Your Back Hurts—

And Your Strength and Energy Is Below Par

It may be caused by disorder of kidney function that permits poisonous waste to accumulate. For truly many people feel tired, weak and miserable when the kidneys fail to remove excess acids and other waste matter from the body.

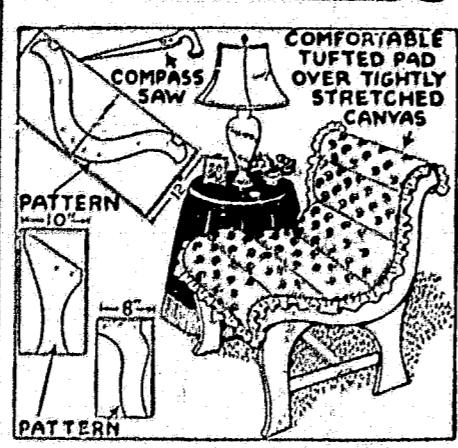

You may suffer nagging backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness, getting up nights, leg palsies, swelling. Sometimes frequent and scanty urination with smarting and burning is another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Dean's Pills. THE war is bringing many changes in the things we use and the things we do. Women as well as men are learning to handle tools. If a chair is lacking we make one. If we cannot have springs we find a way to make it comfortable anyway. That is the spirit of the times.

Perhaps you have made lawn chairs all with straight cuts of the hand saw. Have you ever stopped to realize that it is almost as easy to cut curves with a compass saw? Curves add comfort as well as beauty and a tufted cushion distributes the weight so that springs are not missed so much. The curved pieces of the charming chair sketched here are shown at the left. You can see how easy they are to cut out of odds and ends of one-inch lumber that you may have on hand. The reinforcing pieces are all straight cuts.

NOTE—Mrs. Spears has prepared an actual-size pattern for all the curved sections of this chair. Complete dimensions and directions for the chair construction and for making the tufted cushion, with list of materials included. This is pattern 205 and costs 15 cents. Send your order to:

If you know a Navy man, don't ever call him a "gob"—sailors consider the name an insult. You can get on the right side of him though if you offer him a Camel—or better yet, send him a carton. Camels are the favorite cigarette with men in the Navy (Army, Marines, Coast Guard, too, for that matter) based on actual sales records from the service men's stores. And though there are Post Office restrictions on packages to overseas Army men, you can still send Camels to soldiers in the U. S., and to men in the Navy, Marines and Coast Guard wherever they are.—Adv.

How To Relieve Bronchitis

Creamulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creamulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

MOTHER-IN-LAW CHEERS LONG SOUGHT RELIEF!

Had Been "Irregular" for Years!

Have you often despaired of ever finding normal regularity? Then, by all means, read this unsolicited letter:

"For many long years, my mother-in-law had suffered from common constipation. She used to take all kinds of pills and tonics, but got no lasting relief. Upon starting to take KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN, her trouble cleared up. She feels like a new person, she says. She wanted me to tell the world how your product helped her." Mrs. Poline Balis, 734 East 160th Street, Bronx, N. Y.

How do scientists explain the apparent "magic" of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN's relief? Simply thus: ALL-BRAN is one of Nature's most effective sources of "cellulosic" elements—lack of which in sufficient amounts in the diet is a common cause of constipation! These elements help the friendly colonic flora sluff up and lighten the colonic wastes for easy, natural elimination. KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN doesn't work by "purging"—or by "sweeping you out." It is a gentle-acting, "regulating" food!

If this is your trouble eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN regularly. Drink plenty of water! See if you've found the welcome relief you've hoped for! Insist on genuine ALL-BRAN, made only by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

South America supplied 65 per cent of the world's rubber needs in 1890, while in 1922 only about 6 per cent came from that section. Far East plantation development accounts for the drop in the demand for Amazon Valley rubber.

Synthetic rubber is defined as a man-made combination of molecules that form a substance having the chief characteristics of crude rubber.

In 1938 the total of American-controlled rubber plantations was about 260,000 acres, mostly in the Far East. These plantations produced 40,000 tons annually, or about 8 per cent of U. S. imports.

90 Per Cent of Our Farm Acreage Photographed

The U. S. department of agriculture has just taken aerial photographs of 2,000,000 square miles or 90 per cent of the farm acreage of this country, in order to help determine desirable changes in land use for various kinds of crops, says Collier's. The work, which produced 1,300,000 air photos, cost $8,000,000, or only a fraction of the sum of producing the information by ground surveys.

Aborigines of Australia Still Practice 'Hoodooing'

"Pointing the bone" is a well-known and curious feature of Australian aboriginal life, of great antiquity, and still of practical use. It is a remarkable form of "oodoo" and is frequently used by one aboriginal to ensure the death of another.

The "bone pointer" is believed by his victim to cast a spell—a hoodoo—over him. So great is the psychological effect of this on the untutored mind of the savage that he is unable to overcome it. He yields to the malign influence, becomes greatly depressed and eventually dies.

Medical men who have investigated such deaths apply the term "obsession and persecution complex" as the cause of death.
